

Non-respect des délais : Survie pratique pour limiter les risques! [in French]

Failure to meet deadlines is a major source of malpractice. Many lawyers are sued because they fail to act within the prescribed time limits. This omission, which sometimes results from a lack of legal knowledge, is often due to lawyers' poor organization of their practice.

Be it prescription periods, procedural deadlines or any other type of time limits, these sometimes represent a challenge and even a source of stress for lawyers, like a sword of Damocles hanging over them.

Take advantage of this training which aims to identify tools that will help you better manage the importance of deadlines.

To register for the classroom training, you can do so via the website of the Barreau du Québec at www.barreau.qc.ca / Formation continue / Les formations du Barreau / Accédez au catalogue complet / and choose the appropriate date and location (see calendar hereafter):
